PROFILO

I am a designer with strong creative roots. Over the years, I have cultivated a deep passion for the world of art in all its forms, with a particular focus on painting and sculpture. After graduating in Fine Arts, I decided to channel my creativity into an entirely new field: digital design, a sector that requires precise rules while still allowing ample room for inventiveness and creative expression.
Through my studies at international institutions, I developed distinctive educational competencies by integrating traditional artistic knowledge with contemporary design methodologies. This experience abroad enabled me to refine essential soft skills such as adaptability, patience, the ability to work in multicultural environments, multilingual communication, and a strong sense of empathy—an essential quality in design. These experiences allow me to create digital solutions that are functional, creative, and genuinely user-centered.
